What defines a “generation”

- Entire body of individuals who are born and living at about the same time
- Groups of individuals who because of shared age, experiences, and environment, also share attitudes, values, ideas, styles, and challenges
- Distinction from prior and future groups of individuals

Fwd: [External] [DR-ED] #IAMSE19 - Plenary Speaker Highlight: Geoff Talmon

To: Roberts, David H.

Dear Colleagues,

The 2019 IAMSE meeting offers many opportunities for faculty development and networking, and brings medical sciences and medical education across the continuum together. This year's main topic is Adapting to the Changing Times in Health Sciences Education. One of our four confirmed keynote speakers is Geoff Talmon from the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha, Nebraska, USA. Dr. Talmon will be speaking on the professional training and characteristics of Gen Z students.

Generation Z: The New Kids on the Block

Presenter: Geoff Talmon

Plenary Address: Monday, June 10, 2019, 8:45 AM - 9:45 AM

While the characteristics of Millennial learners have been widely discussed with regard to medical education, a new generation of learners will soon be entering health education: Generation Z. Despite their relative youth, a great deal is already known about this group. Although they share many similarities to their Millennial predecessors, key differences may have an impact on how Generation Z students' preferences, perspectives, and motivations relate to professional training. This session will review the basics of the generations active in medical education today with particular focus on the characteristics of Generation Z students. Following this session, audience
